

Fraser Wilson, Director of Dragon Capital

Fraser graduated from the University of Aberdeen in 1992 with a Bachelor of Land Economy and qualified as a Member of the Royal Institute of Chartered Surveyors in 1995. After graduating he moved to London and joined the Savills graduate training program before becoming a founder member of the newly formed International department.

Mr Wilson was involved in projects all over the UK and western Europe before leaving to join ING Real Estate Investment Management in 2000. He worked initially with corporates to help with their real estate strategy, particularly Hewlett Packard, before joining the fund team and working on City of London offices and European Industrial funds.

Prior to the Global Financial Crisis in 2008, Mr Wilson moved to Vietnam and joined Dragon Capital to raise and manage the Vietnam Property Fund, a listed vehicle with a mandate to invest in property projects and companies in the growing Vietnamese property market. Mr Wilson has co-invested with large scale investors such as GIC and Warburg Pincus and has several sovereign and institutional investors who participate in the fund and other real estate vehicles.
